The first time I was selected for this program, I was excited that I could acquire better knowledge and skills of how to manage, develop and evaluate teaching and learning activities by exchanging my ideas and experience with Indonesian language teachers in Australia. I also looked forward to be the ambassador of my country to promote our cultures and wisdoms.

After one year of my service as a language assistant, I discovered that this programme not only enabled me to gain fruitful teaching experience, but also to find a new home and family. I promise to visit this home, Bunbury, someday in the future.
